MELBOURNE interior designer Shaynna Blaze (below) is the latest name to join the next series of The Block.

Blaze has signed on to be a judge on the popular Channel 9 show, joining Neal Whittaker and John McGrath, who are back for another season.

It's her second TV role — she is a judge on the popular Foxtel show Selling Houses Australia.

She has been on set at the South Melbourne site for weeks as the filming for this series continues.

Blaze said combining her career in interior design and TV was the perfect mix.

"I love it so much, it's ridiculous," she said.

"It's a good mix for me.

"I love my business and my clients, and having both of them is a really good balance."

It's still under wraps as to when Nine will screen the next series of The Block, but Blaze is impressed by the couples.

"I'm blown away by the standard, especially with the time frame these guys are working under," she said.
